

July 14, 2009
VPM: 43,095,481

Ron's Apartment Living Blog

By Ron Leshnowar, About.com Guide to Apartment Living

My Bio | My Blog | My Forum

Add to: iGoogle | My Yahoo! |  RSS

Data Show Renters Prefer Clean Bathing Suits Over Wet Ones

Tuesday July 14, 2009

When looking for rentals in 2008, renters appeared to care more about the basics than luxurious amenities, according to recently released data compiled by Rent.com.

Nearly 40% of apartment hunters wanted a rental with its own washer/dryer while only 9% searched for a place that boasts a swimming pool on premises. Hardwood floors were a factor in only 4% of searches, while the least desired amenity was a walk-in closet, representing only 1% of searches.

Which amenities are important to you when conducting an apartment search?